

Opublikowano na Kultura (<https://kultura.gliwice.eu>)

Strona główna > „Szpak Fryderyk”, reż. M. Streker

„Szpak Fryderyk”, reż. M. Streker

Dodano: 18.02.2020 / pdf ^[1]

Organizator:

Teatr Miejski w Gliwicach

Spór dwójki dzieci jest pretekstem do opowiedzenia historii, której głównymi bohaterami są niezwykle szczury i mały szpak o wielkim imieniu — Fryderyk. Najmłodszy w rodzinie, nieporadny szpak ulega wypadkowi.

Pomocy, udzielają mu szczury. To opowieść o tym, że nie warto wierzyć w stereotypy. Należy akceptować odmienności.

Świat jest różnorodny i pomoc może nadejść z najbardziej nieoczekiwanej strony.

Spektakl dla dzieci w wieku od 5 lat

czas trwania: 45 min

- autor: Rudolf Herfurtner
- przekład: Lila Mrowińska-Lissewska
- reżyseria: Marta Streker
- scenografia i kostiumy: Anna Trzpis
- muzyka: Sebastian Ładyżyński
- obsada: Katarzyna Kostrzewa, Paweł Majchrowski

Bilety: dzieci 19 zł, dorośli 24 zł (zniżki 50% - Karta Rodzina 3+, Karta Dużej Rodziny)

- Kasa: +48 32 232 13 39
- wt. – pt., godz. 9.00–17.00
- sob., godz. 14.00–19.00
- oraz na 2h przed wydarzeniem

Miejsce wydarzenia:

Teatr Miejski w Gliwicach (ul. Nowy Świat 55–57)

Czas wydarzenia:

niedziela, Marzec 8, 2020 - 15:00 do 15:45

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems in the community. This has led to the development of a range of services, including community mental health teams, crisis teams, and assertive case management. These services aim to provide support and care to people with mental health problems in the community, and to prevent them from becoming hospitalised.

One of the key challenges for these services is to ensure that they are able to reach the people who need them most. This is particularly true for people with severe mental health problems, who may be difficult to reach through traditional services. This paper describes a project that was designed to address this challenge.

The project was based on the idea of using a peer support approach. This involves using people with lived experience of mental health problems to provide support and care to other people with mental health problems. This approach has been shown to be effective in a range of settings, including community mental health teams, crisis teams, and assertive case management.

The project was designed to test the effectiveness of a peer support approach in the community. It was based on the idea of using a group of people with lived experience of mental health problems to provide support and care to other people with mental health problems. The project was run by a group of people with lived experience of mental health problems, and was funded by the local authority.

The project was run for 12 months. During this time, the group provided support and care to a number of people with mental health problems. The project was evaluated using a range of measures, including the number of people who were reached, the number of people who were helped, and the satisfaction of the people who were helped.

The results of the evaluation showed that the project was effective in reaching people who were difficult to reach through traditional services. It was also effective in helping people with mental health problems, and in satisfying the people who were helped. The project was therefore a success.

The project was based on the idea of using a peer support approach. This involves using people with lived experience of mental health problems to provide support and care to other people with mental health problems. This approach has been shown to be effective in a range of settings, including community mental health teams, crisis teams, and assertive case management.

The project was designed to test the effectiveness of a peer support approach in the community. It was based on the idea of using a group of people with lived experience of mental health problems to provide support and care to other people with mental health problems.

The project was run by a group of people with lived experience of mental health problems, and was funded by the local authority. The project was run for 12 months. During this time, the group provided support and care to a number of people with mental health problems. The project was evaluated using a range of measures, including the number of people who were reached, the number of people who were helped, and the satisfaction of the people who were helped.

The results of the evaluation showed that the project was effective in reaching people who were difficult to reach through traditional services. It was also effective in helping people with mental health problems, and in satisfying the people who were helped. The project was therefore a success.

The project was based on the idea of using a peer support approach. This involves using people with lived experience of mental health problems to provide support and care to other people with mental health problems. This approach has been shown to be effective in a range of settings, including community mental health teams, crisis teams, and assertive case management.

The project was designed to test the effectiveness of a peer support approach in the community. It was based on the idea of using a group of people with lived experience of mental health problems to provide support and care to other people with mental health problems. The project was run by a group of people with lived experience of mental health problems, and was funded by the local authority.

The project was run for 12 months. During this time, the group provided support and care to a number of people with mental health problems. The project was evaluated using a range of measures, including the number of people who were reached, the number of people who were helped, and the satisfaction of the people who were helped.

The results of the evaluation showed that the project was effective in reaching people who were difficult to reach through traditional services. It was also effective in helping people with mental health problems, and in satisfying the people who were helped. The project was therefore a success.

The project was based on the idea of using a peer support approach. This involves using people with lived experience of mental health problems to provide support and care to other people with mental health problems. This approach has been shown to be effective in a range of settings, including community mental health teams, crisis teams, and assertive case management.

fot. materiały organizatora

Kategorie wydarzenia:

Kulturalne [2]

Spektakl [3]

© 2017 UM Gliwice - Wszelkie prawa zastrzeżone

Miejski Serwis Internetowy Gliwice ISSN 1734-5480 Projekt i realizacja:

Źródłowy URL: <https://kultura.gliwice.eu/wydarzenia/kulturalne-spektakl/2020-03-08/szpak-fryderyk-rez-m-streker>